New Tutorials in TLC

- Respect in the Workplace
This interactive 10-minute training video provides front-line workers in the housing sector with a tangible understanding of what respect in the workplace is, and how they might show it. Upon completing this course, you will be able to deconstruct what respect looks like in the workplace and reflect on a personal commitment to demonstrate respect. Click here to access the tutorial. If you'd like to add this training to your organization's training program, contact us.
- Family Violence Awareness, Understanding and Reporting
This tutorial's primary target audience is employees of community housing organizations. The training covers prevention strategies, warning signs, and risk factors of family violence as well as the legislation and resources available to support housing providers offering help to those experiencing family violence. This tutorial will be released on Sep. 1, 2023.

TLC Training Sessions for Administrators

We host regular TLC training sessions for administrators to showcase the learning management system, and to ~~demonstrate how to efficiently~~ navigate the system, as well as to answer our members' questions. If you are interested, register now for the upcoming sessions.

Webinar for ASCHA Members Innovations in Project Financing

On Sep. 14 at 10 am, financing specialists from Graham Capital will be presenting innovative solutions for project financing that aim to reduce annual debt servicing cost and eliminate the refinancing risk associated with traditional mortgage solutions. This informative webinar will present alternative approaches to project financing when grant funding only covers a portion of the development cost. The goal is to help operators keep their operating funds in their budgets, instead of paying higher debt payments.
